LawBase Expands Integration with Handshake Software

Chicago, Illinois (March 30, 2005)—Today, Synaptec Software, Inc. announced the expansion of the integration between their LawBase and Handshake Software. LawBase is still the first matter management application to take advantage of Handshake's unique relationship toolkit. The blending of these two applications will allow clients to take full advantage of the capabilities of both systems and has now expanded the interface announced in January, 2005.

Synaptec has now made it possible to automatically create Handshake web relationships by using the LawBase Screen Design utility. In this way, while you are adapting LawBase to track the information that is important to your office, you are automatically creating an identical web view of the same data. What appears as a screen in LawBase will appear as a tab within your Handshake browser.

Information can be updated in either LawBase or Handshake and instantly viewed in the other application. You can also apply security to determine what views are accessible to users over the Web. This allows you to share information with others such as your clients, outside counsel, etc.
